

emily williams-wheeler
412 9th avenue south, fargo,
701.235.6115
www.studioefargo.com

February 2011

SPRING EXHIBIT AT JOSIE'S CORNER

This year the students of Studio e will be exhibiting their work at one of my favorite downtown cafés, Josie's Corner. The walls will be filled with a fun graphic design project. The kids have been designing their own CD covers using mostly colored pencils. The artwork will go up in early March and come down in May. Make sure you stop in for lunch or just dessert. It's located on the corner of Broadway and 6th Street North. They serve some of the best cupcakes in town!

PROJECTS...

We have briefly been studying the art of Franz Marc. Considered an "Expressionist" by some, he was bold in his use of saturated color. Unfortunately, Marc died at age 36 in WWI so we will never know where his explorations would have led. Initially, Marc was the inspiration for our project on exhibit at Joseie's, but you'll quickly discover the children found their own voices -which is even better.

Welcome new students!!

Studio e has gained another new student and three returning students. So glad to have you join the fun, kids.

Reminder... if you arrive early for class, please wait until your designated time to come in as it is disruptive to the class already in session. Thank you!!

When asked if a student wants to be in a private class, most children respond with the desire to be with others. I find it interesting, yet understandable as we are social creatures. I provide art instruction but also the environment to enjoy and learn from others.